THE DAILY BULLETIN.

THURSDAY EVENING NOV. 20, 1884.

Mr. Blains dodged the prohibition question by declining to vote for it, when he cast his vote at the State election. It did not, however, dodge him at the Presidential election, for he now attributes his defeat to the strength which prohibition developed in the national contest.

Yesterday the State Board of Caryassers met in New York to foot up the official roturns from the various counties, and issue certificates to the Democratic electors. If the returns had not that days in which to get them and make the certificates.

If Governor Cleveland goes in he will under the bressler new Feeling to the certificates.

If Governor Cleveland goes in he will under the bressler port of the State Board of Caryas as the Blaine managers failed to have him counted out. He will to, exercise extreme care in making appointments, as the Blaine managers failed to have him counted out. He will to, exercise extreme care in making appointments, as that is one of the qualities for which Democratic President and Vice President, in 1836 the writer of this was one of the college of cletors who cast the vote of the State for Buchanaul and Brecking his president and Vice President, in 1836 the writer of this was one of the college of cletors who cast the vote of the State for Buchanaul and Brecking his president and Vice President, in 1836 the writer of this was one of the college of cletors who cast the vote of the State for Buchanaul and Brecking his president and Vice President, in 1836 the writer of this was one of the college of cletors who cast the vote of the State for Buchanaul and Brecking his president and Vice President, in 1836 the writer of this was one of the college of cletors who cast the vote of the State for Buchanaul and Brecking his president and Vice President, in 1836 the writer of this was one of the college of cletors who ca Amona the work Mr. Cleveland will have to do, includes the abolition of every useless offlee, simplicity and comony in the administration of the public affairs, the reluction of excessive taxation, the curtailing and restraint of Monopoles, and the protection of "the American citizen wherever he may go, no matter where he was born." At least this is the programme marked out for him by the Ilon. Samuel J. Randall.

THE Washington Monungent has been finished to the helght of five hundred and twenty feet above the floor. The and twenty feet above the floor. The dedicatory speech made by Gen. Henry S. Foote, then a Senator from Mississippi, The 8. Foote, then a Senator from Mississippi, on the 4th, of July, 1859, was attended by President Zachary Taylor, who took sick from the exposure and farigue and died the next day. The monument was originally designed by an eminent architect of Charleston, S. C., narned Mills.

A REPUBLICAN newspaper of Philis-delphis, the News, edited by Mr. H. P. Handy, which supported Blaine with great energy and enthusiasm, is now dis-posed to blame Jones, of the national committee, for the defent of the Repub-leum canditate. He tailots the great Jones watchet the dollars too closely, and declares that Jones turned a deaf car to the most promising overtures; $10,000 would nave pur $8.5 \text{-th} not of the way." This singly means that $t. John could have been bought off for that som.

Ox Friday evening last at Ancasta, Maine, the home of the defeated candi-date for the Presidency, Mr. James G. Blaine, made one of his audacious bloody shirt speeches, in which he proclaimed, clernal war by the people of the North against the people of the South, and poured out all the vials of his impotent wrath upon the unoffending results. wrath upon the unoffending people of pagnature period the sound, and poured out all the vials of his impotent wrath upon the unoffendling people of the Southern States.

This speech furnishers conclusive proof that Mr. Bilatine is unfitted for any confidence or trust, and that he is a poor whipped cur, who can only have the pity and contempt of the good people of the South whom he so much abused.

It may be intended as the first run of the next Presidential campaign and an indication of himself as the candidate. If so, it is well that he foreshadows the platform on which he intends to run.

Mr. W. W. Corcoras, of Washington City, the sterling friend of Andrew Jackson when he presided at the White House, and whose liberality and pillantiropy are known the world over, was one of the most liberal contributers to the Presidential campaign fund in the late election contest. He gave with a princely hand, and with an enthusiasm which bespoke the ardent Democrat and patrolic clitten. Mr. Corcoran is advanced in years, has no political asplrations for himself, but only seeks the welfare of the country, which he thinks can best be subserved by the Democrat administration of such a man us Grover Cleveland.

NEW Yonk, Nov. 22.—Sullivar and Greenfield, pagilista, fought but two rounds in the pagilista, fought but two rounds in their arrest for violating the law was ordered. At the end of the first round Greenfield rather had the best of the fight, but in the second round Sullivan dealt the Englishman soons sleigh almomer blows in the rits, laid to be seen and the same of the first rounds of the same seen and the page of the same seen and the rounds when the fight. When Captain Williams arrested the putilists there were ories of "Shanne" and "Ob, seemed not to understand what was said to them, and the hig Captain repeated his words. The men puton their ceats and stood up waiting for some one to lead the way off the cutting in the same of the same saked.

"Oh, 'es a big, 'andy, strong chap, and hi'd like for to meet 'im again," he replied. When they arrived at the Station-house, Captain Williams sald to Sergeant Schmitt-berger: "These two men are, prisoners, George W. Walling is the complainant and I am the officer in the ease."

"What's your name? asked the Sergeant. "What's your name? asked the Sergeant.

"Married man?"

"Yes."
"Read and write?"
"Yes."

"Read and write?"
"What's you'r businese."
"'Liquor desier."
Then Greenfield was called. He said he was married, thirty-one years old, born in Northampton, England, the keeper of a beer house, and that he could not read and write.
"'Usan "ell of a fuse for nothing, ye know," and lockel much dieguated. Ye know," and lockel much dieguated. Then Richard K.
